International Society for
Health and Human Rights

Become a member of the International Society for Health and Human Rights (ISHHR)!

The International Society for Health and Human Rights is an international network of professionals, specialists, civil society stakeholders, advocates, and students who are committed to promoting human rights, and delivering health services to survivors of human rights violations, and to other vulnerable communities. For over 30 years, ISHHR has been dedicated to bringing together these like minded individuals to exchange knowledge, experience, developments, research, and to informally network with one another.

ISHHR membership costs €10, and will remain valid for 3 years. The benefits of being an ISHHR member include being a part of a global network, as well as gaining exclusive access to discounts, and special offers at the next ISHHR Conference.
